Pre-GED - Writing

I used this book to teach an adult ESL class for a one-semester writing course. At my other adjunct ESL gigs, I have taught from writing books designed for ESL classes - and I ended up much preferring this one even tho' it is not specifically for ESL instruction. I give the book four stars only because we didn't cover all the chapters or all the material in chapters that we did cover. The book is divided into two main parts: creative and essay writing, and personal and workplace writing. Within each part, there are focused lessons: narrative, descriptive, expository, persuasive, and essay writing followed by letter, job search, workplace, and explanatory writing. Each of these lessons in turn covers the basics of the writing type, writing mechanics, and a GED link. The writing samples and exercises are interesting, varied, and useful. I also appreciated that there is no political or social bias leaking through the writing samples, assignments, or exercises. It's just straight-forward, well-written, engaging material. There may be a teacher's manual for this textbook, but I didn't use one. Visually, the book is also a winner. I can't put my finger on it, but to me the pages are graphically well-laid out, the color and fonts are attractive, and there is the right amount of white space. There are no photographs or drawings, so it won't quickly seem dated. It is an intelligent book, presented nicely.

after i pursured this product i really enjoyed it im learning alot about it. I go to school and i have my own book makes me feel like im part of something good.

Thank you!

I like this Steck-Vaughn series for teaching Adult Ed. You can also use many pages in this book as handouts and worksheets for ABE - GE 3 or 4.
