â œlf you've resolved to explore new horizons this year, Joe Yogerst Æ has some suggestions. As one of the primary authors of Secret Journeys of a Lifetime: 500 of the World's-Best Hidden Travel Gems (National Geographic, $40), he says many incredible sites are overlooked.â • â "USA Today "We're kind of obsessed with National Geographic's new book, Secret Journeys of a Lifetime. Æ The book, which came out earlier this week, has all sorts of travel tips, from the best ghost towns worth visiting to broader topics like the most idyllic island getaways, spiritual travel tips and even classic road trips worth embarking on." --The Huffington Post

As is custom in a National Geographic coffee table book, the photos are stunning; the practical information and planning advice are useful; and the small sidebars on other nearby points of interest are fascinating. But most compelling are the star attractions, with vivid descriptions that transport you for a tiny glimpse into an often unseen world. It will leave you wondering what National Geographic will come up with next.

This is a nice book with beautiful photography. Unfortunately, the descriptions of each location really had no depth or detailed information to them. It feels like a bunch of quick snippets from the web. We were hoping for real details on each location. Best lodgings, secret spots, best restaurants, history, etc.

As good as it looks/sounds . . . Can't run out of ideas/pictures/placesIt's taking a while to get through b/c there's So Much to see . . .You can get lost in the pictures , or use them as inspiration for your next trip :) -easy to use, as little side maps show u where in the globe the attraction is locatedMy pal & I perused thru it for an hour . . . then it got too heavy for him -- 5lbs !!!

Quick shipping, great product, painless transaction - highly recommended.

Great pictures as always!!!! National Geographic never disappoints. We gave it to my father-in-law as a birthday gift and he loved it!

Winter reading material.

It was a gift to my fiancé. He loved it! We are "off the beaten path" travelers and this is a perfect book for us with great ideas. The photography is stunning too! Great coffee table book!

interesting book, we do like to travel and also got 500 of the world's greatest trips from national geographic and like that book better.

I purchased this as a gift for my mother, who enjoys traveling. I'm so excited to give it to her. It's a gorgeous book with good organization, bite-sized lists, and stellar pictures.
