Customer Reviews

"In "Hong Kong Precincts", author Penny Watson skillfully breaks down the 15 precincts (including Macau) and its "best shops, eateries, bars and other hangouts" to feature the wealth of Hong Kong's cross-section of experiences from markets that sell everything from plastic toys to pigs' ears, to modern bars and boutiques. Even better, interviews with local Hongkongers (including a mixologist, sommelier, interior designer, celebrity chef and diamond dealer) highlight favorite haunts and tips for enjoying the best in town. It helps reveal the city's eclectic soul, beyond merely old-school authenticity and tourist favorites." - San Francisco Chronicle

PENNY WATSON is a journalist from Melbourne, Australia, with a serious case of wanderlust. She has traveled the world, written articles for magazines and researched countless guidebooks. Since immersing herself in the world of full-time travel writing, she has lived in London, San Francisco, and Hong Kong.

This is an awesome travel companion for Hong Kong. A real insider's guide to great food, shopping and other experiences. I've done quite a bit of research for my upcoming trip, but this book had a lot of recommendations I've not found online or in other guide books. Plus it has a very sleek and stylish design.

Nice book but the binding was falling apart rather quickly.
